

Applying the WSCC Model to Promote Health and Wellness

The Whole School, Whole Community, Whole Child (WSCC) Model provides a framework for schools to use when creating a healthy environment that supports student success. The model is centered on students and calls for collaboration across school, community, and health sectors to meet the needs and support the potential of each student.

Place your health and wellness issue in the center of the model and write opportunities for support across all 10 component areas to comprehensively address the issue and promote health and wellness.
